1

One night Pharaoh had a dream.
He saw seven fat cows and seven thin cows.
The thin cows ate up the fat, well fed cows,
but the thin cows still looked hungry.

“God said there will be a great harvest
for seven years, then seven years of famine.
Put a good man in charge of storing extra food,
before the famine comes,” Joseph told Pharaoh.

The next night he dreamed about seven fat stalks of corn and seven thin stalks of corn. The thin corn ate the fat corn, but they still looked hungry.

Pharaoh got all his wise men
and magicians, with their magic powers, to find out what the dreams meant.
But none of their magic worked.

Then Pharaoh's best servant told him about a prisoner called Joseph, who could understand the meaning of dreams.
"Send for him at once," commanded Pharaoh.
