

Jesus had some bread and fish cooking on a fire.
The disciples shared the amazing breakfast.
Jesus ate with them and they talked together.
John, a disciple, was there and he wrote it in the Bible.

Simon Peter, Thomas, Nathaniel, James, John and two friends, were by the sea of Tiberius. "I'm going fishing," Simon Peter said and his friends went fishing with him.

Peter quickly put on his fishing jacket and swam ashore. He was so excited to see Jesus alive! This was the third time that Jesus was seen after he had risen from the dead.

It was such hard work that they even took off their shirts! Then John realized that it was Jesus! "Peter, look! It is the Lord!" he shouted.

Twice since Jesus had died on the cross people had said that they had seen him alive. "Could that be true?" they wondered. They didn't even catch one fish all that night.

Jesus called out, "Did you catch anything?"
"No," they answered.

"Put your net in on the other side," Jesus said.
They caught so many fish that they had to call friends, from another boat, to help pull the net in.
